Randy Dean’s Quick Tips for Outlook and E-mail

1. E-mail Decision Tree: Quick ones now, longer ones: task or calendar, then file or delete!
2. “Drag & Drop” to create task, calendar & contacts: Left click on e-mail, hold the click, and drag to Tasks, Calendar, or People. Right click gives options for attachments.
3. Use Signatures as an “Auto-E-mail-Tool”: Best way to access Signatures tool is to open a new e-mail – create as many as you like to speed up your common replies.
4. Quick Parts are great for FAQs: Find this under the insert tab in an open message – select text you find yourself always typing and make it a Quick Part instead!
5. Get Notices when Your “Most Important Senders” send an email: Right-click on their message, then Rules – Create Rule to set pop ups and different sounds for them!
6. SPAM? Could create rule to permanently delete repeat spammers, or just click on message to select it, hold SHIFT key, and hit Delete! It is gone!
7. Don’t start your day in your e-mail! Instead, start your day for a couple minutes in your calendar, reviewing back a few days, and forward a week or so, then …
8. Build a smart task list for Today! … a task list that matches your available time for today and focuses on key projects, priorities, clients, and customers … this is a 5-minute drill!
9. Too much going on? Re-date those tasks that aren’t critically urgent/important for today so your task list fits your day (remember “effective procrastination”?)
10. Remember – favorite task views are “Today”, “By Category”, “Completed” – you can use the last one to track what you got done and when you got it done!
11. Work your day after your inbox is clear with the Task, Task, Task, E-mail strategy!
12. Start Your E-mails with Good Subject Lines! Make sure your subject lines reflect the project, person, client, and/or task they are related to – make it easy for recipient!
13. Keep Your E-mails Short and Sweet! Get to the point, but do it nicely! Identify tasks, owners of tasks, and due dates very clearly
14. E-mail is NOT good for complex, difficult, emotional, or hyper-urgent messages.
   Works best: simple info that’s easily understood and acted on & not critically urgent.
15. If that e-mail is urgent, pick up the phone to make sure it was received. Remember, some e-mails fail, and some people aren’t constantly checking their e-mail!
16. PUTP – Pick up the phone! EOM – End of message. NRN – No Reply Necessary
17. Go BIG! Build a “Priority Note” at least once a year that features your key goals, projects, activities, events, and people. Break it down into subprojects and action items.
18. Refer to Your Priority Note Every Week: Incorporate it into your task list and calendar as individual task and calendar items to fit your most important “stuff” in your plans.
19. Try to work the majority of your day from your Calendar and Task list, not your e-mail inbox! This will help you be more focused, more productive, and less distracted.
20. Have fun, and always looks for places to get a little better, smarter, faster.
Visit my YouTube Channel for Short Tutorial Videos on Outlook, E-mail, Google and More (Consider Subscribing!)

https://www.youtube.com/user/janarandydean

Converting E-mails into Outlook Task & Calendar Items:

https://youtu.be/YMhkNcBt9k4

Using Signatures & Drafts in Outlook as “Automated E-mail” Tools:

https://youtu.be/zOOGlXMt7xg

Reducing E-mail Distraction Through Your Settings:

https://youtu.be/K8zSp0RLnUw

My Favorite Outlook Task View: The “Today” View:

https://youtu.be/Vbqtd_NQ9FA

Essential Outlook Set-Up Tips:

https://youtu.be/QqSEo4608Cw

© Randy Dean, MBA
The E-mail Sanity Expert®
randy@randalldean.com
http://www.randalldean.com

Get access to full-length training programs (for a fee) on my website. Click on the e-learning tab for more info.